DR. CUMMINGS'S

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla and Yock,

THE articles above named are the principal ingredients of this medicine. With these, others of vegetable origin are combined, designed to render them more active, and consequently more immediately effective

The Dock, or rathern species of it, saw ranks as a med cinal plant, second to none of the vegetable kingdom. With the aid of a flattering, wide-spread fame, the proprietor has consulted in the preparation of the compound, he has succeeded in overcoming the difficulty of preserving the extract of the root for any considerable length of time.

For many years the proprietor has resided in his practice on the efficacy of the principal substances of the compound, and is perfectly satisfied that they possess all the properties which have been ascribed to them. Recently he conceived the idea of uniting them, which has resulted in the production of the compound. In this the ingredients are equal to set down in the testimony of the most respectable Physicians and others who are benefited in the most unquestionable manner.

A larger portion of Sarsaparilla is soluble than has generally been supposed The extract used in the medicine, but that package of your remedy has completely eradicated the disease, and now his wife is as good as ever it was It is a month since he has taken the Powders, and I can warrant him sound.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier.

DEAR SIR

I have said or written but little on any political subject, not because I looked upon such things as unimportant, but because that little I could do has been turned to what no other engage in yet I have thought proper to submit to your discretion the following thoughts on the subject of the next presidency

It seems to me that Providence is pointing out our next chief magistrate A man that was slow to enter the field of battle, and delayed until, like Washington in a similar case, he was most severely censured for his tardiness, but who, when constrained to go, could clear his way with a zeal and wisdom never excelled, until his numerous foes lay prostrate at his feet, and when they hung upon his mercy, had the magnanimity to put them on an equal ground with himself, and agree on an armistice, and when that favored enemy proved treacherous not to shrink from the advantage they had gained, by the means of his generosity, nor to seek revenge when he had again obtained control over them by skill and courage, but embrace the first opportunity for an honorable peace, the man who has exhibited such traits of character to us and to the world should unite all hearts Yours Respectfully,

S BAKER

TRIAL OF DR. V P. COOLIDGE
For the Murder of Edward Mathews of Waterville.

SECOND DAY.

Joseph Hasty and David Brownson testified as to the position in which the body was found.

Cyrus Williams sworn —I saw the body of Edward Matthews on Friday, Oct 1st, in the doorway of the cellar, between 7 and 8 o'clock, A M, my attention being drawn to it by others When I arrived there were some half dozen there I do not know of the body's being disturbed previous to its removal It lay in a doubled up position Has dress was very much ruffled up—coat drawn up over his shoulders Boots clean The body went down a small descent into the cellar Don't know that it could be seen from the street From the top of the wood to the ceiling was between three and four feet The wood lay between the door and the stairs Next saw the body in the same place as before Was not there when it was taken out. When I returned the third time, it had been removed to an old plank near by Noticed wounds on the head and body Saw no watch on the body Do not know that his pockets were examined The body was then removed to a shed I know it to be Matthews body as it lay on the stones I went with the body when it was carried to the hall, and was present at the post mortem examination Dr Coolidge removed the stomach

Question—Were the contents poured out?

Evans objected

The contents were put into a wash-bason by Dr Coolidge Dr Thayer smelt of them, and said they smelt of brandy The bason containing the contents was set down on the board the body lay on It remained a short time, my few minutes. Dr Coolidge said to me, "You had better carry it out, as it may upset the room." I carried it down the back stairs, and put it behind an old hogshead It remained there till next morning, when I locked it up in the ice house I removed it before it was fairly light to the ice house I delivered it in the store room, between 9 and 10 o'clock, to Prof Loomis. It was in the same bason I carried it to the hogshead In the interval between the house and the hogshead I had the key Understood the contents to be arsenic, in the passage between the head of the flowing-hall and the drawing room in the second story After the search made by the prisoner I removed the contents by permission of the coroner and Dr Thayer I saw the contents poured out by Coolidge—a purple, grayish white color—some food in it

When I carried it out doors I had it back of a hogshead in an open shed, and did not see it again till I put it into the house. Philander Boole requested me to preserve the contents—I did not inform any one where the contents were or show them to any one till after removed The contents were delivered to Loomis in the bowl No one went with me when I had the bowl The cellar usually kept the key of the ice house—but the night he was away I locked it up David Brighton, clerk at Donnell's store, called my attention to the body—The feet, when I saw them, I think extended out of the door which was opened some 18 inches The body was removed from the plank to the shed, and was left in view of any person—Dr Plaisted, Dr Thayer, and Duncan Keith, constable, were in the front when examination took place.

I accompanied body from shed to hall. The hog-head had upon the side, empty, put a basket between the door and sink The shed was a roof to protect the bowl door from rain, wood shed is beyond, and to get wood you pass the hogshead Did not notice that the bowl had been removed with a cover There was no covering over it—it was empty, glazed inside—Prisoner boarded with me ever since his residence in town Had sleeping room in my house—kept his horses at my stable—had extensive practice, his attention had been given to his business Don't know anything but what his general standing in society was good Was not acquainted with him before he came to Waterville Was my family physician while with me Don't recollect the fact that contents had been removed was notorious Do not remember telling Mr Bodfelle where contents were before being removed—think I spoke to him about it afterwards. The contents were delivered to Loomis Saturday forenoon None passed that passageway but inmates of house Bowl could not be seen in passing The place was open to any one who chose to loaf about, but not frequented by any except inmates. It is open to back yard—stable yard The hogshead lay between bowl and posters by Bowl had been used a year or two—not damaged

Prof J E Loomis sworn—He stated substantially that the contents of the stomach were given to him by Williams how Williams stated it appeared they had been seriously tampered with before he had received them they were in his sight or possession until they were analyzed He analyzed them without any previous indication of what they contained Drs Thayer and Plaisted were present The witness detailed the tests to which the contents of the stomach were subjected After repeated trials they produced results which indicated the presence of Prussic acid. He then gave an account of the post mortem examination of the body The veins in the convolutions of the brain were full and turgid A peculiar odor was discovered, but could not say positively that it was prussic acid The mucous coat of the stomach was much reddened A portion of the interior surface, (about 2 inches in diameter) was of a dark brown color approaching black—somewhat inflamed over the whole surface, and deeply corrugated The liver much darker than in the normal state Saw no natural blood—thinks it was all venous Lungs of a dark blue color, except near the upper end of the lobes The discoloration extended into the substance of the lungs The next day the spleen was found much softened and enlarged, and gorged with blood Kidney in its natural state Brain somewhat softened, and the veins less turgid than day before Saw no extravasation of blood in passing he knife horizontally through, and no engorgement When the thorax was opened he detected an odor similar to that discovered during the analysis of the stomach Has no doubt now that it was from prussic acid He had experimented since that time, with the acid, on various animals [Mr Evans objected to this testimony but was overruled.] Prussic acid when thrown into the stomach in considerable quantities, or placed on the tongue, or in the eye, will cause death in from 3 seconds to 15 minutes Of an acid of 50 per cent strength one drop placed in the eye of a cat, produced death in 10 seconds Muriatic acid in same effect would result, if placed in the eye of a man Witness said he had never made an experiment of the sort Animals which die by this poison offer shock, but not always Sometimes voluntar action may ensue after the shock but rarely Sometimes the shock is repeated several times A dog into whose stomach prussic acid and brandy had been injected, ran 15 feet, shrieked, and instantly died The post mortem examination of an male killed in this way shows a duplication of a portion of the interior coat of the stomach, producing a black patch, and the color of the spleen is heightened The liver has a darker color than in the natural state, and the lungs a peculiar blue cast over a portion of the surface The inner membrane of the brain is always engorged The left cavities of the heart and the arteries empty, and the veneous system engorged The peculiar odor of acid is uniform, and witness had noticed it 60 hours after death in the thorax and abdomen

Witness had performed experiments producing death by prussic acid, and exposing the body and the contents of the stomach in the same way and the same length of time that the stomach of the deceased had been exposed, and in every case the acid was detected by the iron, copper and silver tests—(the same tried on the stomach of deceased)

Cross Examined Had had little experience in anatomy—seen but few post mortem examinations Frequently witnessed dissections but with special reference to the material, and not to the morbid appearances Did not know what effect alcohol would have on coats of the stomach Did not recollect of attending examination of a person who had died by apoplexy or poison. Can speak with more certainty as to the presence of prussic acid in the stomach of the deceased [He detailed the results of the test with sulphate of iron and said no other combination except with the acid would produce like results.] That prussic acid is never generated in the stomach Has seen it stated that it is and that it may be, but never seen it asserted as a fact, by any accredited author [Almost all our food contains the elements of cyanogen (a constituent of prussic acid.) Not common to find the odor of prussic acid in the system of animals No evidence that it was present there spontaneously—Knew but little about prussic acid before the experiments referred to. Could not tell how the blue color in the stomach produced Did not discover brandy in the contents of the stomach Knows of no other substance which has the peculiar odor of prussic acid Oil of bitter almonds could not be mistaken for it, nor could say other substance which witness knows of.

AFTERNOON

Cross Examination resumed. Did not analyze any other substance taken from the body Did not attempt to reproduce the acid from the prussiate obtained There are different degrees of strength in prussic acid according to the manner of manufacturing it Cannot say whether the books speak of the flame made by cyanogen as a purple or red rose flame Is familiar with the appearances of the flame Made the experiment upon the contents of the stomach about 3 o'clock P M in a room with four large windows. Prussic acid may be produced in several modes with which witness is not familiar. Took it for granted that the death of the subject on which he experimented was caused by the acid Knows the acid must have the stomach in those cases, and not into the lungs. Applied nitric acid to the contents of the stomach, in case if morphine were present, but detected none. The cyanide of silver with which the prussic-blue flame was obtained from the contents, was about 2 grains in quantity The same produced by the combination of cyanogen and weighed The bowels may or may not be other knowledge on this point than from the books Can't say whether Christison describes it of a rose color or not Has read Christison Is well acquainted with the natural history of prussic acid

Evans here read from Christison at witness's request, that prussic acid is often generated by the putrefactive fermentation of animal substances, and asked witness if he had so stated that statement. Witness replied that he had not adopted it.

Jesse Gilpatrick sworn I knew the deceased Saw him on Thursday about 1 o'clock, went to the store-house near the landing, stayed 10 minutes—came to Mitchell's, took 6 cocktails, and then went to Dunlap House, and remained till morning. Went to Colgate H's first of the evening, to a small party—then went to J B Craig's about 11 o'clock—It was known on Friday that I was out Thursday night. Was before the inquest on Friday, and was called upon to account for myself the night before We were in the back office about 20 minutes Told me he had examined the body and found brandy Rode to the landing in a wagon Did not ask Coolidge to give me a bottle of medicine I took some brandy at the store house I had the key at the store house, and the brandy was in a bottle

Direct resumed Joseph Hasty was with me when I went to the landing and to Williams He started for his own residence when I left Williams During our progress we met Mr Hall near the bridge When I had the conversation with Coolidge, I did not know that I was suspected

Charles Gilman sworn I lent the prisoner, in Jan, 1847, $100 due on demand He paid it in about 60 days In August 1846, he borrowed $50 on demand, and paid it in September, 1846 He has applied to me for other sums at various times

Eben Shaw, Coroner, sworn Arrived in Waterville on Friday, at 10 o'clock The body was in the Hall of Williams tavern There was a discoloration of the throat, on one side the color was darker than on the other—did not observe distended superficies The pants were cut near but below the side pocket The pocket appeared to have been pinned, but forced open—saw but one cut—don't know whether the body was cut or not.

I received a note from Mr Gray, (presented in Court,)—a small vial containing a yellowish liquid A man came and told me some money had been discovered in the wood house I went out and saw the piece containing it—being $55 (presented in court) A gold watch was brought into the hall by a Mr Allen—(watch also produced in court, with an appearance of blood on the case) These articles have been in my custody ever since I first received them The bonds on the body were nearly clean and pretty blanked A tarpaulin hat, which was said to belong to him, had blood on the inside The coat, vest and shirt were much pulled up The coat appeared to have been buttoned, and the button-hole torn out Clothes but little soiled The jury were empannelled by 11 o'clock Drs Plaisted and Thayer, and Pilot were then called

BOWDOINHAM, Me. Co., N. J., Oct. 6, 1847

Mr Emerson,

My wife has been afflicted with periodical attacks of Headache, attended with sickness at the stomach, for all of twenty years, coming on generally as often as once in two or three weeks We considered her beyond cure, and did not expect it, she took your "Alterative and Tonic Mixture," only with a hope that it would give her relief It is now more than six months since she took a bottle of the Mixture, and she has not had an attack of the kind since—We cannot doubt it was the Mixture which cured her

The above is a true statement of her case, and of the effect of your Mixture with her. It has also been used with great advantage in my neighborhood to my knowledge. WM KING

Gentlemen and Ladies,—Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are one of the best medicines in the World for the cure of giddiness because they purge from the body those stagnant and corrupt humors which, when floating in the general mass of the circulation, are the cause of a determination or rush of blood to the head, giddiness, headache, loss of memory, dimness of sight drowsiness, pain of the head, and many other symptoms of a loaded and corrupt state of the blood

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are also one of the very best medicines for the cure of indigestion, and therefore will most assuredly restore the body to a state of sound health

Beware of Counterfeits and Imitations! Remember that the original and only genuine Indian Vegetable Pills bear the written signature of William Wright on the top label of each box

THE OPINION OF A CONGRESSMAN

The following is from the Honorable Lewis C Levin, Member of Congress, from the 3rd Congressional Dist., Pa., and formerly Editor of the Philadelphia Sun

"It has been said, that we were influenced by selfish considerations, in bearing our testimony in favour of "JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT," and that we were paid for our services, by paying largely as an Advertiser in the Sun—Now, long before the Editor's connection with that paper commenced he had been relieved from hoarseness and oppression of the chest, by the use of this universal remedy, and from a sense of duty, recommended it to the public. At that time, he had not the most remote idea of ever being a daily paper, and Dr Jayne gives a preference to the Sun, not only on account of its large and rapidly increasing circulation, but because the paper opens to the Advertiser a new class of readers, who were never in the habit of taking the daily penny papers of the city In bestowing his humble testimony in favour of the Expectorant, we do not stand alone Thousands in this city attest its curative powers, and although opposed to the use of what are termed "Quack medicines," generally yet, when as in this case, we have felt the benefit of the remedy—while, as we freely acknowledge, we keep it constantly in our family as a certain and prompt remedy for Croup or Coughs we feel that we subserve the interests of society, when we state such facts to the public. The misrepresentations of interested individuals have forced this explanation upon us, which we cheerfully give." LEWIS C LEVIN

The above medicines are prepared only by Dr D Jayne, Philadelphia and sold on agency by G W LADD and E. S. INGRAHAM, Bangor

☞ A Lady in Troy, N Y., who has been given up by her physicians, sends us the following:

Troy, May 15, 1846.

Mr Fowle—

In October last I took a violent cold which settled on my lungs and produced a hacking cough, accompanied at night with night sweats, which reduced me very low A few days after I was taken I employed one of our best physicians, but received no help, I tried another, but with no better success, and finally a third, still growing worse all the while. At this stage of the disease I was reduced so low as to be unable to turn myself in bed, or walk as I had was made. My physicians finally gave me up and said that I had the consumption, and that there was no help for me. My friends advised me to try Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, but the Doctors objected, said that it would only hurry me out of the world. I finally procured a bottle, and by using three bottles I was restored to perfect health

Permanent Cure of Dyspepsia and habitual Costiveness.

To Dr Ralph

DEAR SIR—I have, myself, almost on occasion for your inestimable Pills I have used them any six years, on occasion dictated, and I have reason to suppose they have wrought a thorough and permanent change in respect to the functions of the stomach From habitual costiveness, and the vexing of nauseous and slimy stools, I am completely relieved The multifarious symptoms of Dyspepsia, with which I was once too well acquainted have so entirely passed away, that I hardly know what they were Any use you can make of this, or a more full development of my case, is at your service.

Except in an obstinate case your book (Family Physician) and Pills have been the only physician in my house for six years

There are many of my friends around, and more and more, who call for your Pills as a family medicine, and for chronic cases Yours truly,

Horatio Waldo.
